

Breaking local tradition, a black and white unit was added to the department's fleet of vehicles. Sergeant Sam Seamans solicited funds for the purchase of a vehicle for the Community Oriented Policing Services (COPS) Division. After the purchase, the solid black 2000 Mustang received the coat of white paint. Police equipment, radio, traffic radar, blue lights, siren, and miscellaneous supplies were added to make the vehicle an operational police unit. The vehicle is also serving in a project to explore the public's opinion of the black and white unit and the color scheme's potential for future police unit purchases.

We salute the following businesses for their contribution to the program by going above and beyond in supporting police services in our community.
